Company Leadership

Gloria Bromell Tinubu, Ph.D
Chief Executive Officer

Applied economist, agricultural economist, educator, and former public official, with over 40 years of experience in community economics in both rural and urban areas, Dr. Tinubu founded the Institute for Community Economists to build the capacity of everyday citizens to transform their local economies. She is Senior Community Economist for Tuskegee University's Carver Integrative Sustainability Center (CISC) in the College of Agriculture, Environment, and Nutrition Sciences and served as Lead Researcher for CISC's State of African Americans in the Black Belt (SAABB) project. She has more than 25 years of experience in higher education serving in professorship and leadership roles.

Adeoye "Soji" Tinubu, P.E.
Senior Vice President

Over 40 years of senior management experience in program and contract management, project management, construction management, engineering design, and project controls. Throughout his 35-year career with WSP|Parsons Brinckerhoff, he advanced to increasingly responsible roles which culminated in him serving as Director of LRT Engineering/Chief Engineer to the Toronto Transit City Light Rail Transit Plan, the largest transit project in North America in 2010 according to Metro Magazine (June 2010). Soji was an officer of WSP|Parsons Brinckerhoff, holding the position of Vice-President as well as Senior Technical Manager, Senior Professional Associate, and Project Manager.
